About the Book

In an ever changing society, students nowadays are faced with a myriad of choices for schooling, whether it is private vs public at the primary and secondary level or community college and university at the post-secondary level. This book is an attempt to initiate a discussion for everyone including students, parents, and educators alike based on my qualifications and experiences. Although this book is by no means an exhaustive writing on the subject matter, it is the author's hope that the book can serve as a starting point not only to enhance awareness but to become a public forum by evolving to be a living document for future students.

About the Author

Andy Yuen is a retired physiotherapist who for many years, has taught physiotherapy students through the Department of Physical Therapy, Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto and tutored foreign trained physiotherapists. He enjoys a parallel career in real estate investment and is a Realtor. He was recognized as Business Leader of Character by York Region Character Community in 2008.
